Supporting Recovery from Family, Domestic and Sexual Violence

a pilot program

Supporting Recovery from Family, Domestic and Sexual Violence (FDSV), is a pilot program that will provide trauma-informed care across the FDSV service provision and provide access to trauma-informed mental health care to victim-survivors as part of their longer-term recovery. This Pilot Program seeks to help victim-survivors in their journey beyond initial crises care services by focusing on the ongoing recovery aspects of their care.

This pilot program utilises a collaborative multi-agency approach to implementation. It is here that Anglicare have partnered with Catholic Care to provide the trauma-informed mental health care services for this unique pilot program in the south-west region of Sydney.

The initial phase of the pilot program is set to run for 2.5 years with program assessment, modification, and continuation after a positive assessment. Working with clients for up to 2 years, this long-term approach to supporting the recovery of FDSV victims and survivors aims to improve their health and wellbeing, whilst reducing the impact of mental health issues resulting from their FDSV trauma.

- (c) Provision of FDSV trauma-informed mental health care services, including psychological therapies and other appropriate wellbeing and social interventions within SWS to support victim-survivors in their longer-term recovery as part of the Supporting Recovery Pilot Program.
- (d) Facilitate access to best practice treatment to ensure mental health professionals delivering the service receive relevant training in FDSV specific trauma-informed care and cultural safety including capacity building, support and supervision.
- (e) Establish and maintain partnerships with key FDSV services and mental health professionals within SWS to ensure a holistic service is delivered in partnership with FDSV victim-survivors, key advocates, advisory groups, and family, domestic and sexual violence service providers.
- (f) Establish collaborations and partnerships with organisations including other SWSPHN commissioned mental health and alcohol and other drugs services and Integration and Priority Populations commissioned services including shared care arrangements with Local Care Teams that will be procured alongside this RFP to facilitate coordination of care and assist with referral pathways.
- (g) Establish appropriate governance to ensure quality standards, clinical competence and reporting requirements are maintained and responded to.
- (h) Implement marketing, promotion and community engagement activities that increase community awareness (encouraging help-seeking behaviour, recovery and healing) of trauma-informed mental health care and available supports to improve engagement within the local community.
